Ford’s Theatre explores the legacy of President Abraham Lincoln and celebrates the American experience through theatre and education. A working theatre, historical monument, world-class museum and learning center, Ford’s Theatre is the premier destination in Washington, D.C. to explore and celebrate Lincoln’s ideals and leadership principles.

Ford’s Theatre History
In 1861, theatre manager John T. Ford leased out the abandoned First Baptist Church on Tenth Street to create Ford’s Theatre. Over the next few years, the venue became a popular stage for theatrical and musical productions. On April 14, 1865, Abraham Lincoln visited Ford’s for a performance of Our American Cousin. At this performance, Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth, a Confederate sympathizer and white supremacist. Lincoln died the next morning in the Petersen House, a boarding house located across the street. Ford’s Theatre remained dark for more than 100 years, officially reopening in 1968 as a national historic site and working theatre. It is operated through a public-private partnership between the National Park Service and Ford’s Theatre Society.

Ford’s Theatre Today
Through its inspiring theatrical productions, live historic interpretation and engaging education programs, Ford’s Theatre offers visitors the opportunity to immerse themselves in America’s past while revealing meaningful connections to today.

As a working theatre, Ford’s produces renowned plays, vibrant musicals and newly commissioned works that captivate and entertain while examining political and social issues related to Lincoln’s legacy. With works from the Tony-nominated Come From Away and the nationally acclaimed Big River to the world premieres of Grace, Meet John Doe, The Heavens Are Hung In Black, Liberty Smith, Necessary Sacrifices, The Widow Lincoln and The Guard, Ford’s Theatre is making its mark on the American theatre landscape. With the opening of the Aftermath Exhibits at the Center for Education and Leadership, Ford’s Theatre has become a major center for learning, where people of all ages can examine Lincoln’s multi-faceted legacy through exhibits, workshops and educational programs.

Welcome to Ford’s Theatre and the first production of our 2023-2024 season! With a spotlight on community, courage and transformation, we start with a collective look at the past and present with the world premiere of Pearl Cleage’s Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard. We explore the enduring impact of Maynard Jackson, Atlanta’s first Black mayor. As we mark the 50th anniversary of Maynard’s 1973 election, we are honored to stage this timely piece as part of our ongoing Ford’s Theatre Legacy Commissions initiative.

Cleage, beloved as an activist, author, Atlanta poet laureate and playwright (Blues for an Alabama Sky, Flyin’ West and many more), takes inspiration from her experiences as Maynard’s trusted speechwriter and Director of Communications. Maynard’s historic 1973 election was an event that sparked transformation for the city of Atlanta in significant ways and had a major impact on how the South, specifically the Deep South, was perceived. It was a moment when unity, hope, dreams, change and excitement for active democracy were front and center, as many different communities in Atlanta came together to elect a leader who would usher in a transitional era—moving from protest to power. Maynard was a statesman, a nation builder and a giant of his political era who stood for unity: qualities of a leader whose very legacy continues to live on at Ford’s Theatre.

We would like to thank the former First Daughter of Atlanta, Elizabeth Jackson Hodges, for her immeasurable support of this production. We know that her father would have been proud to see this work.

I want to thank you all for choosing to spend your time with us here at Ford’s Theatre and witness this historic moment together. I hope to see you at the theatre again soon.

Sincerely,

Paul R. Tetreault
Director
Ford’s Theatre Society
Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard by Pearl Cleage is a play first developed through The Ford’s Theatre Legacy Commissions.

Ford’s Theatre presents a new artistic initiative for BIPOC (Black, Indigenous and People of Color) playwrights that will broaden the American theatre canon. Established in 2021, The Ford’s Theatre Legacy Commissions is an artistic incubator for stories about social justice and racial history, exploring underrepresented, lesser-known and unsung heroes in history who changed the course of civil rights and equality in American life.

The Commissions process includes extensive development through first readings, developmental workshops and world premiere productions in the next decade. The initiative is led by Senior Artistic Advisor Sheldon Epps, Director of Artistic Programming José Carrasquillo and The Ford’s Theatre Legacy Commissions Advisor Sydné Mahone. Playwrights Pearl Cleage, Rickerby Hinds, Nambi E. Kelley, Dominic Taylor and Charlayne Woodard comprise the inaugural writers of The Ford’s Theatre Legacy Commissions.

Ford’s Theatre Rules of Engagement

We are glad that you are joining us at Ford’s Theatre today. This is an inclusive and interactive community. Whether you are here to visit our historic site or to see a show, we invite you to be your authentic self.

At Ford’s Theatre:

• We are allowed to be human, in all the ways that make us unique.
• We are allowed to be human together. We encourage you to find moments of respectful connection and engagement with other members of the community.
• We are on common ground. We are all here to enjoy a shared experience and though our reactions and responses may vary, we will remain respectful.
• We are creating a live theatrical experience together; audible reactions and responses are welcome. The actors need you to engage with what you see but not to distract them from their performances.
• We also welcome the use of personal communication devices if they help you to better experience the show, but we encourage you to respect the actors’ work and the other audience members around you. Please note that the taking of photographs, video or sound recordings of the performance is not permitted.

Let’s create something beautiful together.

Ford’s Theatre is looking for people like you to help us welcome patrons to our shows!

“I have only a minute. Only sixty seconds in it, Forced upon me—can’t refuse it. Didn’t seek it, didn’t choose it, But it’s up to me to use it. I must suffer if I lose it, Give account if I abuse it. Just a tiny little minute—But eternity is in it.”

“I have only a minute…” So are the words attributed to the great minister, educator, scholar and activist Dr. Benjamin E. Mays—the legendary Morehouse College president and impactful mentor to the likes of Martin Luther King, Jr., Julian Bond and Maynard Holbrook Jackson, Jr.

Mays’s oft-quoted poem is relatively tiny—yet it conveys epic sentiments. In only nine lines and 54 words, Mays’s rhythmic recitation portends that the time for action is now, that now is ripe with the readiness to make a difference. Capturing the cognizance of temporality itself, Mays’s poem reminds us of the movement of time, while commanding the time for movement.

Knowing what an influential mentor Dr. Mays was to Maynard Jackson, one is prompted to wonder if this poem’s sentiments echoed in Jackson’s subconscious when he decided to run against the staunch segregationist, Senator Herman Talmadge, in Georgia’s 1968 senatorial race. Or when, just a few years later, Jackson redirected his energies and galvanized the city of Atlanta to seize their moment, leading to his history-making mayoral election in 1973.
After all, artful words—powerful prose and poetry, like Mays’s “minute”—can move us; poetic meditations can lift and propel us toward possibility. And that is exactly what we hope you experience with Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard.

Pearl Cleage’s play, Something Moving, is rich with facts, historical accounts and information, yet it resists the limitations—in form and content—often placed on traditional “history plays.”

As Cleage has eloquently explained:

“It’s not a play with a conventional structure because it’s really a poem masquerading as a play…
It’s really a song masquerading as an oral history…
It’s not a comprehensive history of America because it’s really a memory seated primarily in the heart…”

Reflecting upon her father’s invaluable skill of “translating complex political ideas into language that can be understood,” Cleage has spent her many years as an activist-artist honing her talents toward the same end. Whether it was during her time as a student at Howard University and Spelman College, during her time campaigning for Maynard Jackson’s initial mayoral run and serving as his speechwriter and Director of Communications, or during this time, when many of us know Pearl Cleage as the illustrious poet, novelist and playwright she is, Cleage’s oeuvre continues to exemplify the power of meaningful, translatable and poetic expressions.

Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard is the latest of Cleage’s works to offer audiences an artistic and accessible invitation into a historical archive. While she covers Maynard Jackson’s momentous mayoral election and the annals of American History (with “The Big H”), Cleage grants her audiences a chance to not only learn about historical happenings and their reverberations, but to also feel them. As summarized by the play’s character, The Witness: “Some of my best friends are historians, but they like to focus on what happened. We’re going to talk about how it felt to be there.”

Compelling us to feel, Cleage activates an array of voices and viewpoints, gifting us with the stories of unnamed Citizens to help us understand the many different people that joined forces to make History. In so doing, Something Moving reminds us that extraordinary people are ordinary people who do extra-ordinary things. It implores us to be those same kinds of citizens; to recognize that the time for action is now, that now is ripe with the readiness to make a difference, that now is the time for movement.

It asks us: What will we do with our minute?

“In 1919, the Moreland Elementary School opened to serve the Inman Park and Candler Park neighborhoods. After 63 years, the school closed, but in 1982, the building became home to the Little Five Points Community Center, attracting important community groups and arts organizations, including the Horizon Theatre Company and the Euclid Arts Collective. The center has since become vital to the community around the Metro Atlanta area. Something Moving is set in one of its rehearsal rooms.” – Milagros Ponce de León

Ford’s Theatre is committed to creating an equitable, diverse, inclusive and accessible environment for all artists, staff, students, educators, scholars, theatregoers, tourists and volunteers working and visiting our campus and engaging virtually. With renewed commitment, we have reexamined our practices, reassessed our vision for the future and have taken forward steps for needed reinvention. We want to share the principles that continue to sustain and guide our institution:

Ford’s Theatre Society condemns all forms of racism, white supremacy, hate speech, police brutality and acts of violence against Black, Indigenous, People of Color and members of the LGBTQ+ community. We wholeheartedly believe that Black lives matter and support the international cry for equity and social justice. Ford’s Theatre Society is fully engaged and committed to dismantling racism, discrimination, exclusion and systemic and social oppression. We are actively working to be an anti-racist, equitable, diverse and inclusive institution.

Ford’s Theatre Values

- Courage: Following Lincoln’s example, we engage deeply with complex truths, explore new ideas and commit to evolving as an organization.
- Empathy: We cultivate the ability to see our shared humanity and act with compassion.
- Equity: We foster a community that amplifies underrepresented voices and provides equitable opportunities and access.
- Inclusion: We work to be an inclusive community based on respect. We celebrate commonalities and embrace differences.
- Inspired Creativity: We seek to inspire imagination and creative thinking as we collaborate with each other and our community.

Ford’s Theatre Society education programs engage learners of all ages in connecting the past with the present, developing their voices and building the skills needed to participate as responsible citizens in our democracy. Learning how history informs and impacts today, and the role of the individual in crafting our collective future, is woven into the fabric of our programs.

In continuing to explore Lincoln’s legacy, we examine the power of public speaking and how cultivating a culture where listening to viewpoints familiar and new allows us to expand our understanding about the world.

Field Trips to Ford’s Theatre

Ford’s Theatre Society’s education department welcomes students and teachers to take part in our in-person and virtual learning opportunities this season! To ensure local student accessibility to our nation’s historical and cultural heritage, Ford’s education programs are offered for free to D.C. public and charter schools and to Virginia and Maryland Title I schools with free bus transportation for those within the Capital Beltway. Schedule your school’s historic site visit today and inquire about a guided tour by a member of our education staff.

Visit the Teaching and Learning page on our website or email us at education@fords.org for information on any of our offerings.
Bridging the Distance

Ford’s Education continues to evolve our practices and resources to meet the needs of today’s classroom. We have an extensive collection of virtual field trips, digital exhibitions and online teaching and learning resources.

Teachers, are you in search of lesson plans on investigating Lincoln's assassination or conducting a close reading of his first or second inaugural addresses? Are you seeking an activity that uses theatrical text or the visual arts to build empathy? Perhaps you are studying one of the myriad of plays Ford’s has produced in the past. Peruse our catalog of online lesson plans to see which option best supports your needs.

Ford’s Approach to Oratory – The Art of Public Speaking

Practicing the art of oratory develops an understanding of effective communication and how leaders use the power of their words to inspire, unite and compel listeners to take action. Ford’s Approach to Oratory utilizes theatrical techniques and builds an ensemble that works together to empower each student’s voice. Infused with creative play, imaginative exercises and understanding the art of rhetoric, oratory has its place within every classroom.

Visit our website to find out more about our Lincoln Online Oratory Project, Lincoln Oratory Festival and our National Oratory Fellows professional development programs.

These experiences of our theatre and museum are designed for people with sensory sensitivities, including autism. Adjustments to the environment may include less lighting; lower sound levels; designated take-a-break and quiet spaces; and allowances for audience talking, movement and use of digital devices. Printed materials will be available to prepare attendees for their visit.

Ford’s Theatre accessibility programs are supported by the Liberty Mutual Foundation.
The Lincoln Medal is an award given by Ford’s Theatre Society to a person (or persons) who, through his or her body of work, accomplishments or personal attributes, exemplifies the lasting legacy and mettle of character embodied by the most beloved president in our nation’s history, President Abraham Lincoln.

Historic Site Visits
A visit to Ford’s Theatre traces the story of Abraham Lincoln’s presidency, assassination and legacy. Whether for a brief visit or for the full experience, Ford’s will deepen your appreciation and understanding of America’s 16th president. Admission is free; advance tickets have a convenience fee. The Ford’s Theatre campus traditionally includes:

- Museum: Learn about Lincoln’s presidency from his inauguration to his arrival at Ford’s Theatre the night of April 14, 1865. See artifacts related to his presidency and assassination.
- Theatre: See the recreated historic theatre and learn the key facts of the assassination from National Park Service Rangers.
- Petersen House: Explore Lincoln’s final moments in the house where Lincoln died.
- Center for Education and Leadership: See the Aftermath Exhibits exploring what happened following Lincoln’s assassination, the hunt for John Wilkes Booth and the lasting impact of Lincoln’s legacy.

Our visitation schedule varies. Parts of the campus may not be available at the time of your visit.

Box Office Hours
- When there is an evening performance: 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.
- When there is no evening performance: 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- When there is a History on Foot walking tour: 8:30 a.m. until the tour begins.

Groups
Groups (10 or more people) save on mainstage performance tickets, have priority access to the best seats in the house and have flexible payment options. Contact groups@fords.org or (202) 638-2367.

Accessibility

- Accessible seating is offered in the rear orchestra.
- Audio-described performances of Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard are Wednesday, October 11 at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, October 14 at 2 p.m.
- A sign-interpreted performance of Something Moving: A Meditation on Maynard is scheduled for Thursday, October 12 at 7:30 p.m.
- GalaPro will be available for all performances starting Wednesday, September 27. See page 21 for more on GalaPro.
- An audio-enhancement system is available for all performances. Devices are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Please check with an usher.
